From Brand: Greenway Communication : Almanac of Architecture Design 2006 (Almanac of Architecture and Design) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Almanac of Architecture Design 2006 (Almanac of Architecture and Design):

For seven consecutive years, the Almanac has provided readers with sweeping views of events, benchmarks, and successes of the past year in design. Find out which building has assumed the title as tallest, which firms are winning awards, which architecture and design schools are considered the best, which projects and firms are at the top of their market segment, and who the leaders are in the profession. Highlights of the 2006 edition include: * Architecture and design award histories, winners, and acceptance speeches * Rankings of America's best architecture, industrial design, interior design, and landscape architecture schools * Pacesetting projects and their architects: from sports stadiums and skyscrapers to airports, American art museums, and aquariums * Timelines of significant events in the historic preservation, planning and sustainable design movements * Updated salary and compensation guide * More than 35 entries of use specifically for current and prospective design students * Recommended bookstores, magazines, and journals * Professional organizations and their annual awards and honors * Special full-color photo essay of noteworthy, award-winning projects from the past year. * Includes extensive information on the architecture, landscape architecture, interior design, industrial design, historic preservation, and planning disciplines The seventh edition also features six different covers, each highlighting a notable design by the industry's leading firms: NBBJ; Zimmer Gunsul Frasca Partnership; Daniel P. Coffey Associates, Ltd.; Richard Meier Partners Architects; and Murphy/Jahn, Inc. Architects

The essential and definitive tool for architecture and design facts. --Norman Koonce, CEO, American Institute of Architects This annual publication is a cornucopia of information about architecture and design... --Library Journal, 2002 A core reference title for personal, professional, and academic reference collections. --Midwest Book, May 2001 About the Author James Cramer is the founder and chairman of Greenway Consulting and adjunct professor of architecture at the University of Hawaii. He researches, consults, and gives seminars for leading professional firms around the world. He is also the author of 135 articles and several books, including the critically acclaimed Design + Enterprise, Seeking a New Reality in Architecture and How Firms Succeed, A Field Guide to Management Solutions. He also serves as co-chair of the Washington DC-based think-tank, the Design Futures Council. Cramer is the former chief executive of the American Institute of Architects in Washington, DC, and the former president of the American Architectural Foundation. Jennifer Evans Yankopolus is the co-editor of the Almanac of Architecture Design and an architectural historian. She is also an editor for the Ostberg press where she helps projects to achieve the imprint's goal of promoting design excellence. She has a MS in architecture history from the Georgia Institute of Technology as well as a master's degree in heritage preservation from Georgia State University.
